On the 27th of August 2021 I was delighted to be able to attend a trainers training course which had been put together via the CommonLawCourt.com (CLC) This was described as a 4 day course with intensive content to ensure we left with the skills we needed in order to train CLC Peace Constables & become competent to deliver any courses available through the CLC. I had done previous CLC Peace Constable Training in St Eval & proudly became a Peace Constable through the CLC trained by David Laity & John Smith.

The later training on the 27th of August 2021 was delivered by Mick Stott, and held at a Peace Constables home in Cornwall. On the 2nd day of training, which was a Saturday, Mick informed us that he would not be there for the 3rd day (Sunday) as he had other business to attend to in Glastonbury. This was particularly odd as all the attendees had taken time off from their paid work to attend this course, only to be told not to come in on the Sunday, but to finish the final day training on the Monday.

When Monday arrived we were then told that a Lady from the Guardians 300, Donnalee Andrews, would be attending to discuss a few things with us & taking relevant information in order to dispatch our CLC Constable ID (Warrant Cards) cards, Certificates of qualification and CLC Constable Uniforms etc.

When Donnalee arrived we all sat down ready to listen. She explained that all training had to be done through the Guardians 300 (G300) website, and people had to pay to do Constable training, Sovereignty, and any other course on the site. We were very confused as we were under the impression that all courses were free and it was the Commonlawcourt.com that had the authority to train us. It became quickly apparent as she spoke more that we were NOT to book free venues, we were NOT to offer anything to anyone without going through the G300 website. Everything HAD to be paid for and the trainers would receive £25 in expenses if they delivered the training.

Even if we had a free venue, and trainers to deliver we weren't to ever do this without the CONSENT or approval of G300, and there still had to be a charge. Donnalee then proceeded to ask for individual photos (she took them) names, addresses & even bank details. This was apparently to dispatch uniforms & Constable cards which, to this day have never arrived; it was also stated our bank details were required to send trainers their expenses through bank transfer.

Mick Stott stated he used a bank account, that clearly showed his name as the account holder, but assured us that he made no monetary gain from any monies paid into it for training courses, and it was purely so there was an account available to receive & send funds to trainers.

I am deeply disturbed that G300 has all my personal data, including bank details.

After discussing this situation with David Laity we soon realised that CLC did not once agree to any of the above and the training was meant to be free to all. Also David Laity and the CLC had no knowledge of the G300 demands and arrangements until I made him aware of it when I became concerned. There was supposed to be no monetary gain but I learned that G300 had in fact kept all this information from the CLC and continued these arrangements without their knowledge or consent.

There is in fact an app called Lark, a social media platform which is used by G300 to connect all trainers. Intake 4 (Cornish Trainers) we're added to this app where we were able to see how the system/staff & admin work.

It is in this particular app we questioned where our Constable cards were, only to be ignored. When free venues were mentioned it was dismissed and we weren't permitted to proceed with any training unless it was through G300.

Everyone from Intake 4, were indeed left very concerned. G300 left with sensitive personal data which belonged to us.

Nobody received their Constable Cards. Nobody received their training Manuals, promised to us at the training session by Mick Stott, and I myself am still awaiting a refund for a G300 sovereignty course that I booked onto & couldn't attend.
